

R liaison

1. Supply and transcribe three phrases (not examples from the lecture, and preferably not from textbooks) in which intrusive (unhistorical) /r/ might occur after /ə/, and three in which it might occur after /ɔ:/.
2. Explain carefully why many English people pronounce an unetymological /r/ in I saw it, but not in I see it. (It is not sufficient simply to state a rule.)
3. Why are there very few instances of intrusive /r/ after /ɜ:/, /eə/ and /ʊə/?
